

As a global design and manufacturing operation, Petzl is regarded as world leader in the production of high quality equipment for work and rescue. Its products such as the I'D descender, Croll and Basic ascenders, Asap mobile fall arrester, Avao harness and Vertex helmet are seen as the industry standards in the professional marketplace. One of the first companies to develop specialised, lightweight harnesses for workers at height, in 1986 they became the first manufacturer of their type to commission and build their own equipment testing tower, increasing their knowledge and understanding of the forces generated.
